"DO THIS IN MEMORY OF ME"

"Do this in memory of me" are words familiar to our ears. We hear them every time we gather for Mass. Century after century, spreading to every continent and among every race on earth, this command has been obeyed. In every human circumstance, from infancy and even before birth to extreme old age and beyond death, people have gathered to celebrate Mass. From the pinnacles of earthly greatness to the refuge of fugitives in caves, men and women have found no better thing to express themselves but through Mass. They have done it for kings at their coronations and for criminals on their way to the scaffold; for armies returning in triumph and for brides and grooms in humble country churches. They have done it for the proclamation of a dogma and for the wisdom of a parliament governing a mighty nation. They have done it for a sick person afraid to die; for a pupil sitting an examination and for Christopher Columbus setting out to discover America.

They have done it during famines ravaging entire countries and in times of abundant harvest; for the soul of a deceased friend and in thanksgiving that a friend was spared from death; for the repentance of a sinner and for the canonization of saints. Whether celebrating the anniversary of the living or the anniversary of the dead, whether in prison camps or within big cathedrals, from the rising of the sun to its setting, people have continued to gather week by week, month by month, on hundreds of thousands of successive Sundays, faithfully and unfailingly, across the parishes of Christendom, priests and people continue to gather around the altar and "Do this in memory of me".

As I stood outside the church greeting people after Mass, one man told me that the most pleasant words he heard each week were "The Mass is ended go in peace." Perhaps many of us have felt the same but it should not be so. If we come to Sunday Mass not out of duty, but because it is the Lord's Day, and because we desire to do what He asked us to do in memory of Him, then our hearts should be filled with joy. Rather than viewing the dismissal as the most welcome moment, we should recognize what a privilege it is to have been present at the Eucharist. Through the Mass, we participate in the very action that Christ himself commanded his followers to continue throughout the ages. We are honoured that, in every generation, believers have gathered around the altar to obey His command. To take part in the Mass is not simply to fulfil an obligation; it is to join in an act of worship entrusted to the Church by the Lord Himself when He said, "Do this in memory of me." It is a privilege duty to be observed until he comes.

Customary Prayers Said at St. Anne's & St. Joseph's

Prayer for peace: Almighty and eternal Father, God of wisdom and mercy, whose power exceeds all forces of arms and whose protection in the strong defence of all who trust in thee, enlighten and direct we beseech thee, those who bear the heavy responsibility of government throughout the world in these days of stress and trial. Grant them the strength to stand firm for what is right and the skill to dispel the fears that foment discord. Inspire them to be mindful of the horrors of atomic war for victor and vanquished alike, to seek conciliation in truth and patience, to see in every man a brother and a sister that the people of all nations may, in our day, enjoy the blessings of a just and lasting peace. Conscious of our own unworthiness, we implore thy mercy on a sinful world, in the name of thy Divine Son, the prince of peace, and through the intercession of his blessed mother and all the saints.
